BEHIND THE FRONT LINES

ELIAS SOSA

A 23-year old native of the Dominican Republic with a high leg kick similar to his countryman, Juan Marichal, right-hander Elias Sosa has been the pleasant surprise of the Giant bullpen corps. Sosa's weapons include a moving fast ball, sharp curve and darting slider, and he has confidence in his ability, a prime requisite for a relief pitcher. Coming into the game in jam situations, Sosa has compiled five wins and almost a dozen Saves. In recent days he fanned Atlanta's Hank Aaron to record one Save, and got Ted Simmons on strikes and Jose Cruz to end a victory over St. Louis for another one. Elias has been the perfect mate for Randy Moffitt as the Giants' bullpen game savers in 1973.

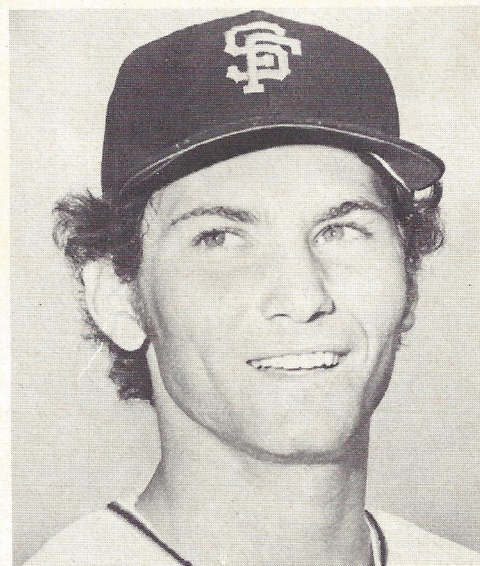

CHRIS ARNOLD

For Chris the 1973 season is one of adjustment, yet he has played an important role in the Giants' success, providing plenty of punch from the right side of the plate as a clutch pinch hitter. An infielder throughout his seven year career, Arnold has always been a strong hitter. In spring training he tried catching for the first time, and began the season at Phoenix learning the skills of a receiver. Not long after the opening of the season Chris was summoned to Candlestick Park and his pinch hitting average has been above .300, with several crucial RBIs. The most memorable was a grand slam home run in the middle of that fantastic ninth inning rally on May Day that defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, when the Giants came up with seven runs in the last at bat, all after two were out.

JIM HOWARTH

An extremely polished outfielder, with the perfect temperament and ability that a manager likes to have on his club, Jim has continued to produce when it counts. His batting average may not show it, but in the pinch Jimmy is a "tough out". Last season Howarth hit a mediocre .235, but as a pinch hitter he was the tops in the National League at .333, and in his out-fielding opportunities he was perfect, with a 1.000 mark. Again this year the hustling southpaw from Mississippi has made his presence felt. He's up around .300 as a pinch batter, and he can play all outfield positions with the best of them. If the need arises Jim can also play first base. Jim has become a local resident and is a popular member of the Giants' speakers bureau in the winter.

MIKE PHILLIPS

Maneuverability is what a manager wants of the personnel on his team, and the 22-year old Mike Phillips provides Charlie Fox with that commodity around the infield. A slick fielder from Texas, Mike has four seasons of professional baseball behind him, and his recall in May as the backup man for Chris Speier at shortstop and Ed Goodson at third base was not unexpected. Since coming up to Candlestick Park, Mike has seen duty at second, short and third, as well as at the plate in pinch-hitting roles. Mike was the Giants' number one choice in the June, 1969 draft, as one of the last prospects signed by the late Johnny Hudson. Mike has great range and a very strong arm, and his presence on the bench makes Manager Fox feel a lot more secure in the late innings of a tight game when he might make a move for a hitter and maneuver players around the infield.

THE SAN FRANCISCO

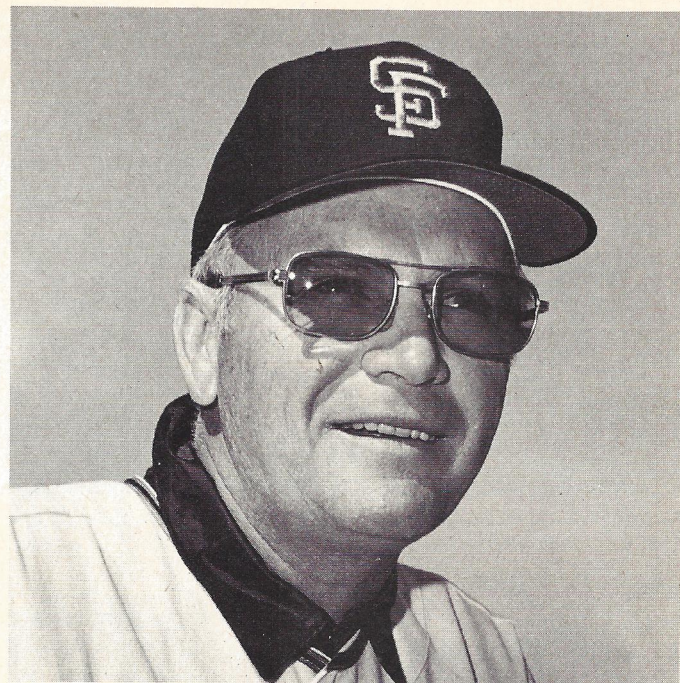

THE MANAGER OF THE GIANTS

The 1972 season was a severe disappointment for Charlie Fox. After taking over the Giant helm in May of 1970, Fox's Giants were 75-53 the remainder of the campaign, a .586 percentage, and topped that with the National League's Western Division title in 1971. With Willie McCovey back in top form after knee surgery and with the addition of an ace lefthander in Sam McDowell, Fox was looking forward to 1972.

Once McCovey was taken from the lineup by a broken right forearm last April 18, everything went down hill. McDowell pitched well at times, but he had arm problems; Juan Marichal was finally forced to have surgery to correct his back problems, and inexperience showed through on the young players who came in to fill regular jobs. But always the optimist, Fox thinks that the youngsters form the nucleus of a great team of the future, and with some improvement in the pitching staff and the full year of experience gained by Garry Maddox, Dave Rader, Dave Kingman, Ron Bryant, Jim Barr and others, 1973 may be the year that Fox was expecting in 1972.

Born October 7, 1921, in New York City, Fox was a baseball devotee from childhood. He played at James Monroe High School in the Bronx, then went into the American Legion and semi-pro leagues as a catcher and hung around the Polo Grounds to volunteer as a batting practice catcher for the New York Giants. After signing with the Giants, in his first pro season, 1942, Charlie wound up with New York in the late stages of the campaign and caught in three games. What might have been a major league career was postponed by three years service in the Navy during World War II, and upon his discharge he returned to the Giants and embarked on a managerial career while also playing, at the tender age of 25.

Scouting duties also were given Fox, and from 1957 to 1963 he filled that position in Ohio and Pennsylvania. After a year as pilot of the AAA team at Tacoma in the Pacific Coast League, Charlie served as a San Francisco coach from 1965 through 1968, and then he returned to managing at Phoenix in the PCL before taking over as Giant manager on May 24, 1970.

LOST AND FOUND DEPARTMENT

For all articles lost at Candlestick Park, please check with the usherette, or report the loss to the "Lost and Found" Department associated with the Stadium Security Office. . . . This office is located on the Mezzanine ramps, on the first base side of the field. The Giants assume no responsibility for lost articles but will make every effort to be helpful in their recovery.

CANDLESTICK CHIT CHAT

The last eight weeks of the season present an attractive schedule of contending teams and special days that will please any fan . . . two big series against the Los Angeles Dodgers headline the action, the first on the weekend of August 3-4-5, and the advance sale indicates it will be the biggest series of the year . . . better order your tickets in advance for that weekend . . . ticket information, including the locations of Giant ticket offices, is on page 8.

August and September find the Giants home on five weekends, and the final appearance of the New York Mets, perhaps the last time as an active player for the great Willie Mays, will take place on August 10-11-12 . . . Hank Aaron, in hot pursuit of Babe Ruth's all-time home run mark of 714, will be in for a big weekend starting Friday, August 31 . . . the Braves will be here for Jacket Day that Saturday, September 1, and all youngsters, 14 years of age and under, will receive a handsome ten gauge vinyl jacket with the team emblem on the chest . . . it's a beauty, and a detachable hood is included with the jacket, making it perfect for back-to-school wear in the fall . . . fan interest in that date is strong.

The Dodgers will be back for three more night games starting on Labor Day, September 3 . . . please note the special starting time of 5:15 p.m. . . . it's a great holiday attraction, and pennant hopes will be affected by the results of that series . . . Houston makes its final stop here for a weekend set on September 7-8-9 . . . and don't forget the Big Red Machine's last trip in on September 19-20 . . . the home schedule, as usual, will wind up with the very popular Fan Appreciation Day on Sunday, September 23rd . . . pick out the dates you want to attend and get your tickets in advance for the best locations.

NEW GROUP SALES SERVICE IN THE SACRAMENTO AREA

The Giants have instituted a new service for fans living in the Sacramento area. Gene Frechette and Ken Gimblin, well known to residents there, have set up an office to service groups wishing to attend games at Candlestick Park.

Call 487-2030 or write them at Box 6577, Country Club Centre, Sacramento 95860, and they'll help you arrange for tickets and bus transportation to games at Candlestick Park.

THE ROADS TO CANDLESTICK

Giant fans attending the games at Candlestick Park in 1973 will find it easier to enter and leave the stadium by automobile now that the Division of Highways has completed their improvement projects in the vicinity. Since 1969 major road construction has widened Route 101 (James Lick Freeway) from six to ten lanes near Candlestick Park, and the Third Street interchange has been expanded to provide more direct access to the stadium.

Fans coming from Marin or northern counties, or from the East Bay via the Bay Bridge and south on Route 101, will find four exits available some 12 minutes from downtown San Francisco—Silver Avenue, Paul Avenue, the Cow Palace exit and the new Candlestick Park exit just south of the stadium. Signs marking the way are readily found via all four routes.

From the Peninsula and points south there is a choice of two entrances, the first marked Candlestick Park, and when that is heavily used, the second one marked Third Street. Taking the Third Street exit from Route 101 makes necessary a right turn on either Jamestown (the first light) or Gilman Avenue (the second light) to get to the stadium.

Going home, once a round about trial-by-traffic, is now made easier with the Jamestown Avenue extension under the freeway continuing right on into the southbound lanes on Route 101. The newest convenience is the southbound entry off of Harney Way, previously providing only northbound access to Route 101. In a pinch, Harney Way can be taken to McKinley Way, Blanken Avenue and old Bayshore on which you may proceed either north or south to connect with Route 101.

The San Francisco Muni Bus system is again maintaining in 1973 the express bus schedule, to and from the games, from downtown and midtown San Francisco.

JACK SCHWARZ

Of the 38 players on the Giant roster this spring a total of 31 are "home grown" products. That is, they were signed and developed by the Giants' organization. Director of Player Development Carl Hubbell and Farm Director and Scouting Coordinator Jack Schwarz are the two men most directly responsible for the continuing procession of talented players who have reached the major leagues with San Francisco.

Approximately four dozen scouts and five minor league clubs comprise the Farm System, and their operation and management come under Hubbell and Schwarz's domain.

Hubbell, a Hall of Fame member, has headed the Giants' player development since 1944. King Carl stands second to the great Christy Mathewson in the Giant pitching records, and present day hurler Juan Marichal is gaining on these two immortals, ranking third or second in most categories.

Schwarz joined the Giants 38 years ago and advanced to the responsibility of directing the club's scouting operations as executive secretary of the farm system. From the first year in San Francisco, 1958, when a bumper rookie crop included Orlando Cepeda, Jim Davenport, Bob Schmidt, Felipe Alou, Willie Kirkland and Leon Wagner, the talent mine has been busy.

The Young Giants of 1973 represent perhaps a new era of players, a talented and exciting group that promises to make the Giants strong for years to come. Current Giants who are recent graduates of the farm system include pitchers Jim Barr, Ron Bryant, Don Carrithers, Randy Moffit, Elias Sosa and Jim Willoughby; catchers Dave Rader, Jake Brown and Mike Sadek; infielders Ed Goodson, Dave Kingman and Chris Speier; and outfielders Jim Howarth, Garry Maddox, Gary Matthews and Gary Thomasson.

Of course the veterans are also represented in the farm system alumni—Juan Marichal, Tito Fuentes, Alan Gallagher, Jim Hart, Willie McCovey, Bernie Williams and Bobby Bonds were all prize pupils.

And not to forget the future, there is a bright new crop of potential major leaguers "down on the farm." The names of pitchers John D'Acquisto, Ed Figueroa, Frank Riccelli, and infielders Gene Cook, Mike Phillips and Skip James will be heard in coming seasons.

HE'S OUR ALL STAR SHORTSTOP

CHRIS SPEIER

In his now long two year career as a Giant in the National League, Chris Speier has had many satisfactions, but the one that occasioned the most pleasure for him, he says, was his selection by the other National League players as the National League's top shortstop for 1972. The recognition by his peers was so gratifying.

That he should have been selected (and by popular vote) doesn't require a great deal of discussion. At the position he has convincingly established himself as one of the very best now playing. His range, speed, instincts, authentic bat, sure hands, and perhaps most importantly, his rifle like arm, pick him out in every game he plays.

There are some old time followers of the Giants who insist that Speier is the finest shortstop they've seen in the home flannels since Travis Jackson's days at the Polo Grounds. There have been some outstanding Giant shortstops since then, notably Dick Bartell and Alvin Dark, but Speier's skills most closely approximate those of the old Polo Grounds' stalwart.

Speier savors being called the Giants' best shortstop since Dark manned the position two decades ago. Still the youngster has not let all the adulation change his perspective. And he still believes that being on a winning team is more important than personal success.

"Being a kid from across the Bay who's always loved the Giants makes it seem like a dream come true to actually be playing for San Francisco," Chris concedes. "I want to live up to the praise, and I've got to prove it by being on a winner."

"Sure," he adds, "I want to be the best that ever played. But I can't say if I am the best shortstop in the league, I have to prove it on the field. You have to win to realize the full scope of all the compliments."

Happily, too, the now 22-year-old Speier is a native son. He was born and grew up in Alameda, across the bay from San Francisco. In October Chris married the charming Aleta Pagnini, and they make their home now in San Mateo.

Thus his professional career encompasses only three seasons, one at Amarillo in the Texas League and then right away to Candlestick Park. The big jump from Texas to California proved to be only a short hop. He caught the eye in his first year, and last year improved on his performance in all departments.

Among other things he handled 790 chances and committed only twenty errors, the fewest among all the league's regulars except for Philadelphia's Larry Bowa. He also perked up his batting average to a solid .269, which included 15 home runs and produced 71 R.B.I.'s.

Those last two power figures are the best by a Giant shortstop since 1958 when Daryl Spencer slugged 17 homers and drove in 74 runs. With expanding power as a result of physical maturity, it isn't too far fetched to say that Speier will surpass those marks in the near future.

Like Father, Like Son...

A recent game between the Young, Young Giants and the Disney on Parade characters, led by Mickey Mouse, produced some interesting comparisons.

Some of the Giant players' children got up a team and challenged Mickey, Pinocchio, Cinderella and company. Rosie Marichal, daughter of the Dominican Dandy, showed her version of the high leg kick (lower left) as she shut out the Disney club. It's quite similar to the form her famous dad exhibits on the Candlestick mound. Pinocchio was the leadoff batter (right).

And Tito Fuentes' five-year-old son, Rigo, was very intent as he waited for Mickey Mouse's pitch (upper left). The Young, Young Giants of the future blanked the Disneys, 6-0, led by Rickey (8) and Barry (9) Bonds, Ronnie Blanco (4), Rigo and Jerry (9) Fuentes and pitchers Rosie (10) and Elsie (8) Marichal.

GIANTS' JACKET DAY, FAN APPRECIATION DAY HIGHLIGHT SEPTEMBER

Ron Bryant and his Bear model the Giant Jacket that will be given to youngsters on Saturday, September 1st.

Hank Aaron and the Atlanta Braves will make their last visit of 1973 to Candlestick Park for a weekend series that will be highlighted by Giants' Jacket Day on Saturday, September 1. All youngsters, 14 years of age and under, will receive a free Giant Jacket, made of ten gauge vinyl with detachable hood and the team emblem on the chest, when entering the ballpark. These jackets are perfect for year round wear, and just the thing for back-to-school days in the fall. Tickets for Jacket Day are available at all Giant and Ticketron box offices. For information on box office locations see page 8.

The always popular Fan Appreciation Day will close out the Giants' 16th season in San Francisco on Sunday, September 23rd. That's always a big event on the Candlestick Park schedule, so pick up your tickets in advance to assure the best seat locations.

SPECIAL DAYS AT CANDLESTICK

JACKET DAY—Saturday, September 1—Giants vs. Hank Aaron and the Atlanta Braves at 12:15 p.m. All youngsters, 14 years of age and under, will receive a free Giant windbreaker jacket of durable ten gauge vinyl with a detachable hood with the team logo on the left chest. It's a great jacket for year-round wear.

FAN APPRECIATION DAY—Sunday, September 23—Giants vs. the San Diego Padres at 12:15 p.m. in the last game of the regular season. The always popular Fan Appreciation Day program will follow the game that afternoon.

Booster Brunches Feature the Mets and the Braves

The final two Giants' Booster Brunches in Candlestick Park's Stadium Club will be held on Saturday, August 11, and Saturday, September 1st. All fans are invited to attend. The Club opens at 10 a.m. with the speaking program featuring players from the Giants and the opposing team getting underway at 10:30. For information and reservations call the Giants' Publicity Department at 467-8000.

HOW MUCH DO YOU KNOW ABOUT THE GIANTS?

1. The Giants have many dangerous hitters in their line up. Which one holds the record for the most walks in a single season?
2. Who holds the Giant's record for the most stolen bases in a season?
3. Juan Marichal holds many Giant's pitching records, including most shutouts in a season. How many and when?

ANSWERS:

1. Willie McCovey has the record of 121 walks in 1969.
2. Bobby Bonds stole 48 bases in 1970.
3. In 1965, Juan Marichal pitched 10 shutouts.
